As a private Christian university, affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention, University of the Cumberlands places significant value on its relationship with the churches of the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

The KBC Church Member Scholarship seeks to acknowledge a student’s membership, active attendance and participation within a local church congregation that is in cooperation and good standing with the Kentucky Baptist Convention. In providing this scholarship, the university is making an investment in the lives of individual students and in the future of local KBC affiliated churches and the overall convention.

Eligible students may receive up to a $1,000 scholarship depending on the student’s amount of financial need and other financial aid received.

To be eligible for consideration, applicants must:

- Be an active member of a church that is in cooperation and in good standing with the Kentucky Baptist Convention.
- Complete the admission process and be admitted to the university
- Complete and submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)
- Applications submitted by December 31st will be given priority consideration. Application submitted after December 31st may be considered on a case by case basis.
