

Consent to Disclosure

Students of the University of the Cumberland have certain rights regarding the disclosure of personally identifiable information contained in the student's education records without student's consent. These rights are contained in the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act. The University annually notifies its students of these rights in the University Catalog and the Student Handbook.

The University invites a student, upon enrollment, to consider whether the student wishes to consent to the disclosure of specified information and records to certain named individual(s). The student's consent is entirely voluntary. The student's consent will remain in effect at the University, unless the student signs a revocation of that consent with the Office of the Registrar. A student is entirely at liberty to revoke the consent, entirely or partially, at any time.

If you wish to consent to a disclosure, please indicate below the records and information which you wish to allow the University to disclose, the purpose of the disclosure, and the identity of the person(s) to whom the disclosure may be made.
